X. WITHINGS'S USAGE POLICY OF ITS DISTINCTIVE SIGNS (INCLUDING TRADE MARKS) FOR THIRD PARTIES

Withings's distinctive signs (i.e. Withings's protected distinctive signs such as registered and unregistered trade marks or service marks, logos, slogans, catchphrases, visual identity, trade names, domain names, etc.) are among our most valuable assets. They represent the Withings brand and need to be used by our partners according to the following policy ("the policy").

10.1 General terms

Any use of any Withings distinctive signs requires a written permission, by Withings, defining an authorised use (hereinafter a "licence"). The licence may be a licence clause in any sort of agreement or a dedicated licence agreement.

In some cases, as permitted by the applicable local laws, wordmarks can be used without a written permission to truthfully convey information about Withings, the firm, its products, its services or its compatibility therewith as long as the use does not cause confusion as to source or affiliation.

However, you may not use any of Withings's logo without a licence.

In addition, you may not use any Withings distinctive signs in metadata, search fields, hidden text, or any other form that has the goal or the effect of confusing or diverting consumers. If you have a licence from Withings, such use is not included in the licence, unless stated otherwise.

By using any Withings distinctive sign, you acknowledge that Withings is the sole owner of the distinctive sign and agree not to interfere with Withings's rights in the registered trade marks, including challenging Withings's use, registration of, or application to register such trade marks.

10.2 Applicability of the policy

This policy is applicable to Withings's employees, customers, licensees, consultants, authorized resellers, outside vendors, reporters, and other third parties, including any entity (individuals or legal entities) with whom Withings entered or has entered into agreement.

The policy is to be updated from time to time without notice. Withings guarantees to keep a history of the policy versions on its website. The applicable policy is the one that is pending at the time of the entry into force of the licence.

10.3 Withings distinctive signs

A list of Withings distinctive signs can be found in the corresponding page found at <https://www.withings.com/ip>. This list is not comprehensive and will be updated from time to time.

10.4 Generic guidelines

If you have a licence, the following generic guidelines are to be followed, unless specified otherwise by the licence.

a. Scope of the authorized use by the licence

Unless specified otherwise by the licence, the authorized use by the licence cannot extend beyond the scope generally defined by the agreement which includes the licence clause or by the agreement in relation to which a dedicated licence agreement was signed. For example, a research agreement involving Withings on a sensor does not authorize the partner to use any of Withings's distinctive signs in relation to a commercial collaboration or to use metadata using "Withings" to drive customers' requests on search engines to the partner's website.

Unless specific otherwise by the licence, the authorized use by the licence can neither show or infer a relationship or affiliation with Withings which does not exist.

Unless specified otherwise by the licence, the use of any Withings distinctive signs on a licensee's material must not be interpreted as the material being endorsed or approved by Withings.

b. Use of Withings distinctive signs

The Withings distinctive sign(s) must conform to the use generally made by Withings (e.g.: shape, colors, etc. of the distinctive signs).

The Withings distinctive sign(s), and particularly any Withings registered trade mark, needs to be used as an adjective, accompanied by an appropriate generic noun that defines the relevant product or service (e.g.: "Withings® body scales are elegant products") and never as a noun (e.g.: "Withings® is a durable product"). This doesn't apply to slogans or taglines.

The Withings distinctive sign(s) cannot be altered, in any way (plural or possessive forms, or combined with anything else in a single made-up word or with a hyphen, etc.).

When applicable, the proper trade mark symbol (®, ™ or SM as applicable) must be used, preferably as a superscript format for the trade mark symbol.

Any material embedding Withings distinctive sign(s) must be of a sufficient quality and positively reflect the Withings brand.

No disparaging use of the Withings distinctive sign(s) must be made.

c. Acknowledgement of Withings's distinctive signs

For registered trade mark(s), an ownership notice that identifies each Withings trade mark that is reproduced as being owned by Withings SAS (e.g.: "Withings ® and the Withings app logo are trade marks of Withings SAS") must be included.

d. Withings as a trade mark or a trade name

"Withings" is sometimes used as a trade mark to identify the brand and the products, and sometimes as a trade name, notably the mother company Withings SAS or its affiliates such as Withings Inc.

When Withings is used as a trade mark, the trade mark symbol "®" after "Withings" needs to be added (e.g.: Withings®).

When Withings is used as a trade name, the trade mark symbol after "Withings" does not need to be added.

Withings is spelled without capital letters. "WITHINGS" in capital is a logo.

10.5 Enforcement by Withings

Withings closely monitors the use of its distinctive signs. In case of breach of this policy, Withings may ask to cease the unauthorized use of its distinctive sign(s) and, if applicable, may terminate the agreement with Withings.

In any case, Withings may engage in legal action to protect its intellectual property and its protected distinctive signs.

10.6 Contact

Any question or any request for a licence may be submitted to ip@withings.com or legal@withings.com. Once approved, Withings will send appropriate logo files for your use.

XI. GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS

The present privacy policy is subject to the General Terms and Conditions
